

Rolling hills, parkland and even a few ghosts are among Castle Leslie's drawcards. But its reputation as a haunted house doesn't deter the many happy guests who return year after year to ride around the estate, soak up the ambience and relax. The castle was built before installed baths (opposite) came to Ireland but these days the level of luxury is second to none.

CULTURE CLUB

Those without a country estate can join the club at Ireland's Castle Leslie, where good manners and outrageous behaviour are as welcome as low-key celebrities. Jane Cornwell saddles up for a unique experience.
